

Home-work is an important school-home-school link. Parental support and encouragement is vital. Adults doing home-work for children is strongly discouraged. Parents should be encouraged to:

- Set aside a quiet time for doing home-work.
- Ensure the child is sitting comfortably at their table or desk.
- Allow time for oral work as well as written.
- Encourage their child to keep books and copies clean and tidy.
- Praise their child's effort at every available opportunity.
- Communicate any problems that their child is having to the teacher.
